Freeze Dried Lemon Description:
Our freeze dried lemons are all provided with raw materials from organically certified farms to ensure the green and safety of the source. In the production process, the sterilization and disinfection of the control process are strictly controlled to provide customers with safe and reliable freeze-dried food, and no artificial sweetness is added. Agents, chemical additives, retain 100% of the nutrition and natural flavor of freeze-dried lemons!

Freeze dried lemons are rich in vitamin C, carbohydrates, calcium, phosphorus, iron, vitamin B1, vitamin B2, niacin, citric acid, malic acid, and also high in potassium and low in sodium, which are harmful to the human body Very useful. Freeze-dried lemons are rich in vitamin C, which can maintain the production of various tissue cells and intercellular substance in the human body, and can maintain normal physiological functions. Therefore, regular consumption of lemons can prevent colds and stimulate hematopoiesis. Moreover, vitamin C has the effect of preventing and eliminating skin pigmentation, so regular consumption has the effects of beauty, whitening, and beauty. However, because freeze-dried lemon is a light-sensitive food, if it is eaten in the morning, it can cause facial pigmentation after being exposed to ultraviolet rays. Therefore, it is recommended to consume it at night before going to bed, while avoiding light and sunscreen.

Our freeze dried lemons are mostly used to make tea. Add rose, wolfberry, red dates or other scented tea of your own choice, brew 500ml of boiling water, and take it after standing at room temperature. Not only do you add water for a day, but also take it. With the vitamins and trace elements you need, you can do multiple things in one fell swoop!
