PQQ（Pyrroloquinoline Quinone）

Pyrroloquinoline quinone (henceforth PQQ) is a small quinone molecule which has the ability to be a REDOX agent, capable of reducing oxidants (an antioxidant effect) and then being recycled by glutathione back into an active form. PQQ appears to be quite stable as it can undergo several thousand cycles before being used up, and it is novel since it associates with protein structures inside the cell (some antioxidants, mostly notably carotenoids like β-carotene and Astaxanthin, are located at specific areas of a cell where they exert proportionally more antioxidant effects due to proximity; PQQ seems to do this near proteins like carotenoids do so at the cell membrane).

Specification： 250mg/serving 60Cap/bottle
Or customized according to customer requirements

Function

1.Improve the body's immune function
As a necessary factor of human development, it can stimulate the growth of cells in the body, especially the activation of human B cells, T cells, antibody production, improve the immune function of human body. Pyrroloquinoline Quinone is the most powerful bioactive substances so far.

2. Prevent and treat the liver damage
Can significantly reduce serum bilirubin, alanine aminotransferase levels, make liver function normal, regulate liver damage and have very good curative effect on liver disease.

3. Reduce free radical damage to human body

PQQ is a kind of oxidoreductase prosthetic group, involved in biological REDOX reaction in the body, can effectively remove free radicals in the body, reduce the harm of human body free radical, protect tissues, reduce the body damage caused by various diseases, such as heart disease, cancer and all kinds of inflammation.Free radicals is the source of diseases.
